

Jorge Nállim is Associate Professor of History at the University of Manitoba, where he teaches Latin American and World history. His research has focused on modern Latin America and Argentina in the fields of cultural, intellectual, political, and social history. He is the author of Transformations and Crisis of Liberalism in Argentina, 1930-1955 (University of Pittsburgh Press, 2012) and El antiperonismo. Raíces históricas e ideológicas (Buenos Aires: Capital Intelectual, 2014). His current research is on anti-communist intellectual networks in Mexico, Argentina and Chile during the Cold War and on human rights violations and memory in Argentina. He has taught at the University of Pittsburgh and Sarah Lawrence College, has been Resident Director of Sarah Lawrence College's Program in Havana, and served as board member and President of the Canadian Association for Latin American and Caribbean Studies.