

Margaret Power is a professor of history at the Illinois Institute of Technology. She is the author of Right-Wing Women in Chile: Feminine Power against Allende and co-editor of Right-Wing Women around the World and New Perspectives on the Transnational Right. She co-authored Hope in Hard Times. Norvelt and the Struggle for Community During the Great Depression. She is co-editor of a special issue of Radical History Review on Puerto Rico. Her current research focuses on the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party, about which she has published several articles.