

Anupama Uppal is a Professor of Economics in the Department of Economics, Punjabi University, Patiala, Punjab, India. She has been teaching for 22 and has published widely including three books and numerous journal articles. Her areas of specialization include social and economic inequalities in the Indian labour market and feminist economics.